

Globethics Publications releases its 100th book

In April 2016, Globethics.net has launched “Identités territoriales et conflits dans la province du Sud-Kivu, R.D. Congo” by Bosco Muchukiwa, which is the 100th publication of its collection.

Globethics Publications is the publishing house of the global ethics network Globethics.net. It publishes scholarly works on applied ethics and related fields such as philosophy, theology, social sciences and law. The books are available online for free and in print for sale via Amazon websites. As of mid-April 2016, a total number of 631,703 soft copies of Globethics publications have been downloaded from the dedicated web section.

The first publication “Responsible Leadership: Global and Contextual Ethical Perspectives” edited by Jesse Mugambi and Christoph Stückelberger was released in 2007. In total, 88 authors from all regions of the world have published their books and 78 of these books have been written by authors from the global South.

Globethics Publications comprises 10 series. Authors can submit their manuscript online. The texts are reviewed and approved by special committees. Some of these books are translated into different languages.

Globethics.net Executive Director Christoph Stückelberger says, “The concept since the beginning of Globethics Publications is to provide books for and from developing countries that are easily accessible online for free and at affordable prices in print. We aim to contribute to fairer access to knowledge on ethics and give the opportunity for academic voices to be heard that would otherwise not be”.

As a publishing house, Globethics.net is committed to editing high quality books accessible to a wide audience.

For more information about Globethics Publications: <http://www.globethics.net/publications>

About Globethics.net Foundation

The Globethics.net Foundation is a global network on applied ethics with individual and institutional participants from all continents. It is committed to strengthen core values such as freedom, justice, sustainability, peace and responsibility in a globalised world by knowledge sharing, networking, empowering people, international research and training of people for responsible leadership. <http://www.globethics.net/>

Media Contact

Loyola Ranarison, Programme Executive Digital Media and Communication

Email: ranarison@globethics.net - Tel: +41 22 791 63 36